+IMPACT MAGAZINE

THE OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF GBCSA

IT'S TIME TO GO BEYOND MERELY MINIMISING DETRIMENTAL IMPACTS. EVERY INVESTMENT WE MAKE, EVERY PRODUCT WE PRODUCE, AND EVERY BUILDING WE DESIGN, CONSTRUCT AND OPERATE SHOULD MAKE A POSITIVE IMPACT.

THE BEST GREEN BUILDINGS ARE ABLE TO POSITIVELY RESTORE, IMPROVE, REVITALISE, INCLUDE, DENSIFY, ENHANCE, ADVANCE, AND EMPOWER OCCUPANTS, COMMUNITIES, AND THE ENVIRONMENT. CAN YOU SERVICE OR PRODUCT HELP DESIGNERS ACHIEVE THIS KEY OBJECTIVE?

THE VISION

+Impact is the official publication of the GBCSA presenting insights in to the entire value chain of green building and the positive impacts it has on precincts, health, welfare and profitability in the property and construction sector and for day-to-day living. Featuring articles by some of the most respected journalists and commentators in the sector and beautifully illustrated with original photography and graphics it will be a sector specific publication with a lifestyle edge.

EDITORIAL OBJECTIVES

+ IMPACT Magazine will present editorial that celebrates the innovative approaches of top rated projects, reveal the work of GBCSA members, share international thought leadership and delve in to the lifestyle elements that are shifting design principals and the green product base.

It's time to go beyond merely minimising detrimental impacts. Every investment we make, every product we produce, and every building we design, construct, operate and occupy should be making a positive impact.

We will uncover their stories in a unique approach that enables representatives of the value chain to express their vision and to provide examples of the green buildings that have the potential to positively restore, regenerate, improve, revitalise, include, densify, enhance, advance, and empower occupants, communities, and the environment.

Included in the editorial will be reviews of the leading building approaches and materials shaping green buildings. Beyond this +Impact Magazine will also showcase the best of green home and lifestyle products and assess their impacts.

IN A NUTSHELL THE EDITORIAL PILLARS:

- Rated buildings, products, goods and services.
- Thought leadership – interviews with significant minds in the green building sector
- Technology and construction
- Lifestyle – design, products, gadgets, innovation

GREEN BUILDING COUNCIL SOUTH AFRICA

The GBCSA exists for and on behalf of its members, the main aim is to transform the built environment in which people and planet thrive through training, certification, advocacy and content development/ research. +Impact magazine is yet another step forward in growing the green building movement through profiling & communication of member best practices and achievements to key stakeholders that includes the public sector, commercial property sector, professional services, products manufacturers and suppliers etc.

THE EDITOR

Melissa Baird is a leading sustainability strategist, writer and editor of multiple business and lifestyle publications that promote environmental consciousness and support economic and social development. She brings an authentic perspective that translates in to compelling and fresh content pillars and provides a creative environment for thought leaders and innovators championing solutions for a better built environment, and lifestyle, to present their ideas.

“Transforming the property and construction sectors towards absolute sustainability, and making a positive impact on our cities and communities, is a key driver for the GBCSA. It is also a primary objective of the GBCSA’s official publication +Impact (pronounced positive impact). +Impact will celebrate the work of members and communicate the key ideas and trends transforming the built environment in South Africa, Africa and beyond. +Impact is free to members in print and digital formats, and for members wishing to communicate through advertising, rates are discounted, so get involved, this is your publication.”
